I am writing about the opportunity to work as a Student eBay and Online Sales Worker at Oregon State University. I have a passion for technology, digital commerce and online sales and would love to be able to contribute in this role. I will briefly discuss how my background has prepared me to be able to do well in this role.

The first part of my background is I have a love for both commerce and technology including working as a student web developer. I gained a lot of marketing experience while working in the Career Development Center at OSU where I helped to market our services to faculty, employers and staff members. I also work with my younger brother a lot selling online items including art and electronics. During the Holidays this requires a lot of organization as the room we work in can be full of orders in different levels of preparedness that all must be organized and shipped. A few tools that I have used that would translate well to being organized in this role include Excel, Access and MySQL.

I also have customer service experience that would allow me to make sure customers are happy with their purchases. This experience comes from my time working at the Career Development Center where I worked at the front desk for Student Life helping with the phones and people arriving to the suite.

This sounds like a very interesting and engaging opportunity and I hope I am able to speak to you more about my interest for this role. My OSU student ID number is 930-694-191 but I will be taking classes at LBCC Spring Term.

Thanks for your time,
David Vasquez
